

THE MARKET APPROACH IN A NOTIONAL VALUATION CONTEXT

Thursday October 27, 2011

Presentation Overview

This workshop will explore the relevance of a Market Approach when rendering notional valuation opinions. Chris Nobes of Campbell Valuation Partners will explain, through a case study, when a market approach is relevant and when it is not. He will also explore different ways the market approach can and has been applied in his practice.

Presenter

Chris Nobes is a Managing Director of Campbell Valuation Partners Limited and its affiliate, Veracap Corporate Finance Limited. Since 1997, Chris has provided assistance to clients and court with respect to the valuation of businesses and business interests, intellectual property and other intangible assets, as well as the quantification of economic losses. He has prepared valuations, damage quantification and expert reports for various purposes, including: oppression and appraisal remedies, shareholder disputes, family law, fairness opinions, corporate governance, employee stock option plans, succession planning, shareholder disputes, corporate reorganizations, financial reporting, income tax, and mergers and acquisitions. Chris has testified as an expert before the Court and in mediations and arbitrations. Chris is actively involved in various committees of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Business Valuators and is a contributing editor of Canada Valuation Service, a Thomson-Carswell periodical.
